

Lesego Seoketsa

VISUAL ARTIST

My first hair memory is being held on top of the bathroom sink and my mom removing hair relaxer from my scalp, yikes!

My hair became a part of my identity when I first felt pretty after braiding it as a child, and when I cut it off immediately after because it was too tedious to maintain.

My hair is an extension of my personal style. The outfit must always go with the hairdo and hair ties.

I look and feel my best when I am taking care of, and loving, myself internally and externally.

When it comes to my hair, I'll never take its thickness, curls and texture for granted ever again.

A hairstyle I still want to try is blonde curls with my real hair, but no extensions.

A product I'll always be loyal to is leave-in conditioner. It makes my hair grow very quickly, and locks in moisture.

I am serious about taking care of my hair; washing, conditioning, oiling and braiding it.

The best advice I've been given is to love my natural hair as it is.

Trends come and go but this summer, I'll be braided in good ol' cornrows.

SHOPPING LIST

Mizani Coconut Souffle
Hairdress, R280

The Perfect
Hair Mango
and Marula
Leave-in Conditioner,
R110

Novex Argan Oil Leave-in Conditioner, R190

CROWN SOURCE

Inspiring your personal hair journey

We ask style gurus, tastemakers, influential minds and creative voices to share their personal hair journeys – including some of their “firsts”.

SHOPPING LIST

Redken All-Soft-Argan 6
Formula, R640

Mizani
Strength
Fusion
Intense Night
Treatment,
R385

Wig stand, R44

BY KELLY FUNG

Tshiamo Modisane

ACTRESS, PRESENTER AND BEAUTY CONNOISSEUR

My first hair memory is bittersweet. As a child I used to hate getting my hair cut, but I loved going to my barber. At home, I would spend every second either playing with my aunt's hair or styling one of my mom's wigs. Hair has always been a form of affirmation and representation for me. To this day, I can boldly admit that I am, indeed, my hair!

There has never been a time when my hair was not part of my identity. My late mother would tell me that I always had a scarf or wig on my head when playing or just relaxing.

My hair is an extension of my personal style. I have names for all my wigs as I believe they carry a different persona.

When it comes to my hair, I'll never cut it! In 2020, I had my big chop and even though I still looked beautiful, it took some time to grow on me.

A product I'll always be loyal to is my Mizani hair relaxer. After my big chop, I decided to relax my hair, and I'm glad I did! I love the length, texture and bounce of my relaxed hair.

The best advice I ever received was from my mother, who said: “No matter how hard life gets, never let your hair show how frustrated you are!”

Trends come and go but this summer, I'll be in my knee-length blonde goddess braids.

